

Albert DaviesShell Shock

They were just trembling, trembling and they cower. Even if you walked towards them were cowering, they shoo away from you. Always get in any nook and cranny they could. Especially in pits, you couldn't get them out of the slit trenches sometimes. So you sort of got fed up with them you know; say "Well bloody well stop there then, see how you get on".